

HERITAGE GATEWAY

National and local records for England's historic sites and buildings

www.heritagegateway.org.uk

Byland Abbey
© English Heritage. NMR
DP056483

HERITAGEGATEWAY, www.heritagegateway.org.uk, gives you online access to historic environment resources allowing you to search local records alongside national records. You can now search more than 1.5 million records through Heritage Gateway. Heritage Gateway is a collaborative project between the Association of Local Government Archaeological Offices (ALGAO), English Heritage and the Institute of Historic Building Conservations (IHBC).

Features:

- Local and national historic environment records
- Listed building descriptions
- Archaeological excavations
- Contemporary and historic photographs
- Contact information for England's Historic Environment Records

You can use:

- Quick Search for basic queries
- Advanced Search for detailed queries by any combination of location, type of building or monument, period in history or associated person

Halnaker Windmill
THEN

Reproduced by permission of English Heritage, NMR W19701101

Reproduced by permission of English Heritage, NMR AA83701325

206282 © Peter Fuller

Who's it for?

- Professionals in the historic environment sector. Heritage Gateway can be used as an easy reference tool in relation to your work.
- Managers or researchers of the historic environment. Heritage Gateway is a convenient first port of call, allowing you to see the wealth of information available.
- People interested in the past. Heritage Gateway allows you to explore an area and learn about its history using records and images.